Movement III · Conflicting Desires

Mine

The series question: "And who is my neighbor?" (Luke 10:29)

GENESIS 13:8 And Abram said to Lot, Please let there be no strife between me and you, and between my herdsmen and your herdsmen, for we are men, brothers.

READ ALONG: Genesis 13:1–18

Follow along

1. Who is fighting first, Abram and Lot or their herdsmen?

2. What does Abram offer Lot?

3. Why would the elder normally choose first?

4. Where have money or property split people you know?

5. Why do disputes often start among the people who work for the leaders?

6. Would you have given Lot first choice? What would it cost you?

7. Can having more make it harder to live at peace?

THE ONE QUESTION

What do you own that is costing you a relationship?

- 1. Who could you let choose first?
- 2. What are you calling yours that you were only given?

The empty chair. Every week one chair at our table stays empty. It is for the person you would never invite.
